Here, warmth meets stillness in an experience shaped by Scandinavian craftsmanship and thoughtful design.

We craft sauna solutions rooted in legacy and refined by innovation. Discover the essence of the traditional sauna and wrap yourself in a warmth that never goes out of style.

What is a traditional sauna?

Classic warmth and pure enjoyment

The traditional sauna has long been a space for relaxation, recovery and connection. Defined by dry heat and hot stones, it offers an experience that both stimulates and calms. With temperatures of 75–90 °C and low humidity (5–15%), it delivers deep, soothing warmth that promotes circulation, eases muscle tension and clears the mind.

Pouring water over the stones releases steam, intensifying the sensation. Tylö heaters warm quickly, providing stable heat and a lasting sense of quality.

Health benefits of traditional saunas

Wellbeing for body and mind

In an ever-changing world, the sauna offers a space to pause, breathe and recover. Regular sauna bathing is more than a pleasurable ritual – it's an investment in both physical and mental wellbeing.

Sauna bathing can enhance circulation, ease muscular fatigue and promote a sense of vitality and calm. It provides a tranquil space for mindfulness, relaxation and mental clarity – a natural reset in your daily rhythm.

Regular sauna sessions may help to:

- Aid muscle recovery by promoting circulation and reducing post-exercise soreness
- Support the body's natural recovery process and boost vitality
- Promote relaxation and contribute to more restful sleep
- Encourage a sense of skin cleansing and natural renewal through sweating

Whether you're seeking physical recovery, emotional balance or simply a moment of peace, a traditional sauna supports your overall sense of wellbeing.

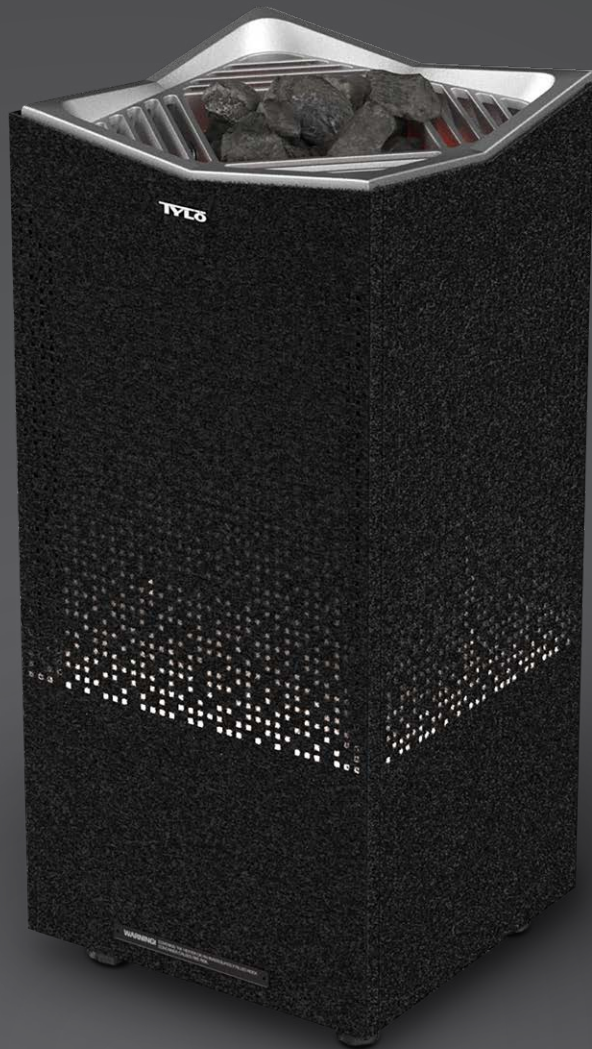

Energy-saving

Heat with care

A traditional sauna from Tylö is designed to deliver maximum heat and comfort with minimal energy use. Thanks to smart design, efficient heating technology, high-quality insulation and solid construction, our saunas heat up quickly and retain warmth for longer. This lets you enjoy the experience without unnecessary energy waste.

Optimised heat distribution ensures a stable, comfortable temperature throughout the room. Fast heating, controlled output and an energy-efficient standby mode automatically adjust energy use once the desired temperature is reached. The result is a sauna that gives you more for every kilowatt while supporting both body and environment – without compromising on comfort or quality.
